Efforts underway to make commuter train permanent

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Saturday's inaugural run of the Gulf Coast Limited elicited a turnout in Hancock County of "twice as many people" as anywhere else along the Gulf Coast, Tri-State Rapid Rail Transit Commissioner Delmer Wilcox told the Waveland aldermen Tuesday.

"And," he said, "we are already starting to work toward a different type of train to provide commuter service to New Orleans when the World's Fair is over."

Wilcox appeared at the aldermen's meeting to thank them for their assistance and support in implementing operations of the Amtrak World's Fair train.

City officials also expressed satisfaction with the turnout in Waveland for Saturday's train trip.

"We had 500 balloons, 500 caps and 500 cookies and cold drinks," Mayor John Longo reported, "and we were cleaned out in minutes."

Wilcox said the commission is continuing efforts to implement a second train and hopes the next stop will be in Bay St. Louis.

Also Tuesday, the aldermen discussed with John Zuchinni the possibility of Zuchinni's hooking in to Waveland's sewage system.

Zuchinni told the city officials he is building a mobile home trailer park located 300 feet off Longfellow Drive on Chapman Road.

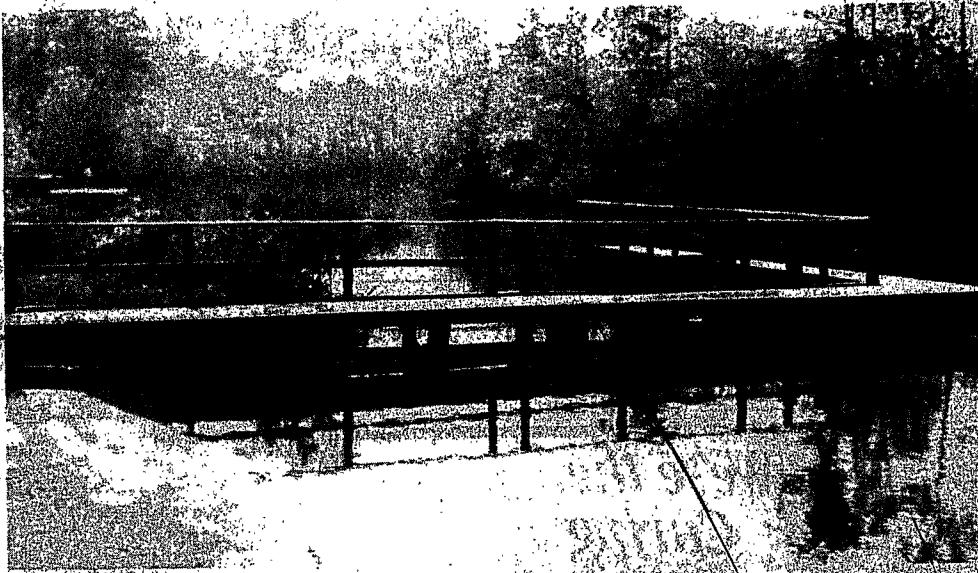

The Round Table Restaurant, formerly Oaklands, is also involved in the sewer tie-in project, he said.

The aldermen accepted his request and suggested he also discuss his project with Waveland Regional Wastewater District officials.

Agreed to donate $30 to Hancock Industries at the request of Alderman Bob Hubbard, who said the donation would be matched four to one with federal funds.

Improvements continue at McLeod

Monies remaining from a $80,000 grant from Pearl River Basin Development District for campsites at McLeod Water Park have been designated for playground equipment.

Hancock County Park Commissioner Hilda Bourg says the commission hopes to purchase equipment, including swings and slides, similar to those at Buckaneer State Park.

"We want to provide something to entertain young children," she said.

Twenty-four recently completed new campsites are now open, Bourg said, making a total of 32 available at the water park.

The new "pull through" campsites are equipped with hookups for water and electricity, concrete picnic tables, hibachi grills and trash disposals.

The campsites, Bourg said, were designed to leave as much natural surroundings as possible.

"We just took out the bare necessities to make room for the sites," she said.

Nature lovers who prefer pop-up campers or tents will find many spacious sites in the primitive camping area which rambles throughout the 428 acres of the park, she added.

The water park also offers basketball goals, a volleyball court, a nature trail and a regulation softball field equipped with lights for night play and bleachers for spectators.

Each entrance is guarded by a guardhouse building which serves as an information center, reservation fee collection office and security station.

A large assembly room is available for use by guests and local civic organizations.

Two bathhouses with hot showers are also available.

The Pearl River Basin Development District has constructed 18 water parks adjacent to the Pearl River and its main tributaries.

The Pearl River is the third largest drainage basin in Mississippi, with more than two trillion gallons of water passing along its banks each year.

The river basin contains seven million acres and drains an area of 8,760 square miles, touching 23 counties in Mississippi and three parishes in Louisiana.

In Hancock County, McLeod Water Park is located on the banks of the Jourdan River, a tidal river flowing into the Bay of St. Louis.

A channel connects the main body of water with two inland lakes which have created a natural setting for the park.

A two-story pavilion at the park overlooks the Jourdan. The lower deck is equipped with picnic tables and grills and the top deck is designed as an observation point for a full view of the river and park.

Two fishing piers extend out into the lakes, and adjacent to the piers is a twin-lane boat ramp.

The nature trail includes an elevated boardwalk and system of foot bridges which parallel the river.

Demos elect county officers

The Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee, composed of six registered voters from each of five beats, met Saturday at the Hancock County Courthouse to elect officers for the next four years.

Joe Benvenuti was re-elected as chairman. Geraldine Lang was elected co-chairman. Hilda Bourg was elected secretary and Clarence Harris was elected treasurer.

Rosemary McFarland was appointed by Benvenuti to serve as chairman for Democratic Women.

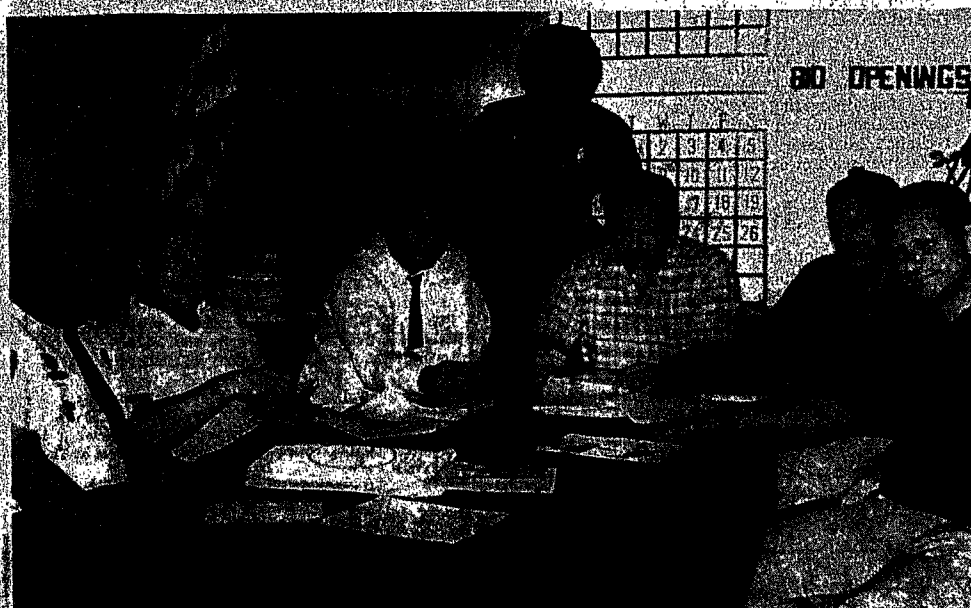

The Democratic Party of the State of Mississippi convention will convene tomorrow at 7 p.m. at the Coliseum in Jackson.

The convention will continue Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m.

Only properly certified delegates and alternates may participate in the convention.

Credentials may be picked up at the Coliseum from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. Saturday.

Delegates must register by 9 a.m. Saturday or they will not be certified.

BROTHER MALCOLM

BROTHER MAURUS

Sacred Heart brothers mark Silver Jubilees

Two Brothers of the Sacred Heart—Brother Maurus Bordelon and Brother Malcolm Melcher—are Silver Jubiliarians this year.

Brother Maurus (Ernest Joseph Bordelon), son of Norwood P. Bordelon and Anna Mae Bordelon, both deceased, and Brother Malcolm (Gilbert Wayne Melcher Jr.), son of Mr. and Mrs. Gil Melcher Sr., were honored April 22 at St. Stanislaus in a community celebration.

A native of Plaquemine, La., Brother Maurus graduated from St. Aloysius High School in New Orleans in 1955. Brother Malcolm, born at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., graduated from McGill Institute in 1959.

In September of that year both entered the religious life as candidates at Spring Hill, Ala. They took first vows there in 1961 and final vows six years later at St. Frances Cabrini Church in New Orleans.

Brother Maurus received his bachelor of science degree from Spring Hill College in 1962 and earned his master's degree in theology from Notre Dame University in 1968.

Two years later he obtained a master of science degree in physics from Loyola University in New Orleans.

Brother's first teaching assignment was at Cor Jesu High School in New Orleans in 1962. Two years later he moved to Donaldsonville, La., teaching for two years at Ascension Catholic High School.

There followed a year each at Alexandria, La., Vicksburg, and St. Aloysius in New Orleans.

In 1969 Brother Maurus moved to Brother Martin High School where he remained until going to Asnières, France in the summer of 1979 to study French.

In 1979-80, he was involved in an exchange program, teaching at St. Albans,

Public Safety commissioner cites medical examiner need

Commissioner of Public Safety James L. Roberts Jr. said many common problems experienced by municipal, county and state law enforcement agencies can be solved through a concerted, coordinated, cooperative effort.

Roberts' comments came Friday during a meeting of the Mississippi Association of Chiefs of Police in Laurel.

"One common problem we all have—and one with which I am very familiar as a former county prosecutor—is the desperate need this state has for a medical examiner system."

"I know how hard it is for a small police department to obtain an autopsy in a death investigation."

"The need for a statewide network of qualified pathologists is great."

"The Legislature has addressed this problem by authorizing the crime lab to hire a forensic pathologist and an assistant."

"As we meet today, members of the Legislature are trying to find a way to finance the medical examiner under the crime lab budget," he told the chiefs.

"Provided we have adequate funding, your detectives will soon be able to obtain a qualified pathologist and a complete crime scene work up by making just one telephone call."

Roberts urged association members to "consult with your delegation to the Legislature to promote support for the medical examiner program."

Roberts told the chiefs, "If you will help me identify other areas of common problems that we as law enforcement agencies face, the Department of Public Safety will do all it can to seek enactment of legislation at both the state and federal level to overcome them."

He offered the assistance of the Department of Public Safety and its components; the Mississippi Highway Patrol, the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy, the Bureau of Narcotics and the Mississippi Crime Laboratory.

"By offering you the resources of the Department of Public Safety, I am not talking only about the ability of the department to assist you in criminal investigations, manhunt, high speed chases, roadblocks, crime scene documentation, training, undercover operations, and the like; I am also reminding you that the Department of Public Safety is regarded by many members of the Legislature as a primary source of information concerning law enforcement problems in the state," the commissioner added.

He praised association members for supporting the development of Mississippi's Minimum Standards Act for law enforcement officers.

"I look forward to spending as much time as I can making sure that the minimum standards program is one that produces results and meets the basic needs that police departments in the State of Mississippi have."

"The day has long since passed when just anybody can wear a badge and tote a gun," the public safety commissioner said.

As commissioner of public safety, Roberts is a member of the nine-member Board on Law Enforcement Standards and Training which is responsible for establishing and enforcing the minimum standards program.

Roberts told the chiefs the public should know more about law enforcement agencies and their missions.

"I have taken steps as commissioner of public safety to make the department more accessible and more open to the public," he said.

"We cannot do our job without public support. I want the people of Mississippi to know more about the Department of Public Safety and how it operates."

"I want to promote understanding on the part of the public for what we do and how we do it."

"I want the people to know our problems and I look to them to help provide solutions to those problems."

"The demands of a modern society will not allow us to operate in a vacuum. Law enforcement agencies cannot operate behind walls."

"We must be understood and appreciated by the public if we are to carry out our mission," Roberts said.

Friday was the final day of the association's annual meeting that has been underway since Wednesday. About 100 chiefs of police attended the conference.

Short Takes

The outdoor concert the other night was either a huge success, judging by the clapping, or the mosquitoes were out in force.

A lawyer we know who dabbles successfully in medical waters refers proudly to his ample wardrobe of malpractice suits.

- d) Shallow respiration

ANSWER: A week

pulse is one of the signs of possible depressant overdose. Death will follow if the reduced respiration and low blood pressure are not counteracted by proper medical treatment.

We have known Mr. and Mrs. Andy Becker, residents of Bay St. Louis, for many years, and they are out helping with the 1984 Cancer Crusade.

As many of you know, Becker and his wife are living proof that cancer can be conquered, as both have had their bouts with the disease.

To talk and look at them today, you would not believe that both had cancer in the early 60's.

Melaine Mitchell, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce secretary, the county crusade chairman, is working very hard, and is lucky to have people like the Beckers helping this year.

The Beckers and other volunteers, who know the importance of cancer research, will be calling on residents door to door soliciting donations for the Cancer Crusade.

Each will have materials furnished by the Cancer Crusade, which tell you the seven warning signals for cancer.

Andy says the knowledge of the seven warning signals is what saved him and his wife, who were stricken some three months apart.

Most cancers can be cured if caught early.

This is a worthy cause, so we hope Hancock County will reach its goal.

It is our understanding that Dr. Joe H. Powell and daughter Ann, who are new residents of Hancock County were instrumental in re-activating the Hancock County Chapter of the American Cancer Crusade.

Becker emphasized the fact that the local drive has no association whatsoever with the Virginia-based American Institute for Cancer Research which is having a bout with the Council of Better Business Bureaus.

It was heartwarming on Saturday seeing so many folks at the Waveland Depot for the inaugural run of the Gulf Coast Limited.

We are also proud of the fact that the Waveland-Bay St. Louis stop for the train generated the most people.

It was good to ride the train again through the marsh, as it brought back many memories of when we were young and vacationed at the Rigolets.

We are hoping there will be a way of having commuter service continue after the World's Fair is over in New Orleans.

It is our understanding negotiations are still under way for a second train during the fair.

Delmer Wilcox, Rapid Rail Transit Commission member, gave us a copy of a telegram he received from U.S. Senator Thad Cochran, wishing success on the inaugural run of the Gulf Coast Limited.

Senator Cochran along with others were instrumental in establishing Amtrak's train service from Mobile to New Orleans for the World's Fair.

If you haven't ridden the train, we suggest you give it a try.

The 52nd Annual Sideline Club Fair is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

As usual a variety of good food will be offered in addition to the many activities.

The fair begins at 6 p.m. on Saturday, and 2 p.m. on Sunday, and will be held on the St. Stanislaus grounds in Bay St. Louis.

We hope to see you at the fair.

JUNKED VEHICLES—Junked vehicles parked on the shoulder of roads like this one on St. George Street is reportedly illegal, in addition to causing problems for grass mowing and proper road maintenance. Bay St. Louis and Waveland patrolmen, in addition to sheriff's deputies are notifying violators to remove the junked vehicles. If they are not within a certain period, law officers are having them removed. There are city ordinances and state laws prohibiting junked vehicles on public roadways. This is another effort in Hancock County in promoting beautification. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

MISSISSIPPI CONSUMER REPORT

A Service of the Consumer Protection Division Of The Office Of
Edwin Lloyd Pittman, Attorney General

Two complaints that hospitals charged for services which were not provided to patients were made to Mississippi's new Medicaid Fraud Control Unit on its first day of operation, Director Bill Barnett said.

The complaints are now under investigation.

The Unit, which officially started operating April 22, will investigate and prosecute cases of fraud by providers of Medicaid services.

Complaints can come from the general public, from other state agencies or from the Medicaid Commission.

"We expect that the majority of complaints will be channeled to us from the (Medicaid) Commission," Barnett said, "because they will have more direct contact with the providers."

Providers of Medicaid services include hospitals, doctors, nursing homes and pharmacies primarily, with others providing some miscellaneous services.

The new unit is under the overall supervision of Michael Espy, Assistant Attorney General for Consumer Protection, with Barnett in charge of day-to-day operations.

Ninety percent of the funds for the unit come from the federal government. The attorney general's office has received $108,000 for operations through July 1. The allocation for fiscal year 1985 is $379,500.

The Mississippi House of Representatives passed a Senate-approved bill making Medicaid fraud a state crime and setting penalties for violators.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Ed Beulow and Sen. Robert Crook, authorized the creation of the fraud control unit.

"We anticipate during the first year of operation at least 10 arrests under the new act," Barnett said. Money which is recovered by the unit can be put back into the Medicaid fund.

With the start-up last week, Mississippi became the 34th state to establish a Medicaid Fraud Unit.

At a time when most federal programs are being cut back, this program is an exception. "There is tremendous support in Congress," Espy said, adding that efforts to recover funds from fraudulent providers in other states had been very successful.

"We are trying to make sure that the people on Medicaid in Mississippi get the services that Medicaid pays for," Attorney General Ed Pittman said.

Any person who wants to register a complaint about possible Medicaid fraud can call Barnett at 359-3166 or write to the Medicaid Fraud Control Unit, Attorney General's Office, P. O. Box 220, Jackson, MS 39205.

Pollution Control Bureau outlines burning guides

With Spring approaching many people will be burning leaves and trash as they begin to clean up from the winter.

And, according to Dwight Wylie, chief of the air division for the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control, a lot of confusion exists over what open burning practices are acceptable.

"Some people think that nothing may be burned while others do not realize that there are laws and regulations preventing certain open burning practices," said Wylie.

State air pollution control regulations prohibit the open burning of rubber tires, or any other synthetic materials other than petroleum fuels such as kerosene, diesel oil, or gasoline; open burning of garbage; certain open burning practices during a High Fire Danger Alert declared by the Mississippi Forestry Commission; and fires set for the purpose of disposing of vegetation in conjunction with site improvement, development, or preparation for construction or right of way, when burning is within 500 yards of any occupied dwelling, commercial airport property, private air fields, or where burning would cause a traffic hazard.

Open burning which is permissible includes fires set for recognized agricultural and/or forestry practices provided that permission is obtained from the Mississippi Forestry Commission. Fires set for the training of fire control personnel under the supervision of the approved public fire control official; fires set for the prevention of a fire hazard; fires set for the disposal of waste resulting from storm damage; and fires used for cooking of food for human beings.

Of course, rubber tires or similar materials cannot be used to start these permissible fires," reminded Wylie.

The land purchased by the Port and Harbor Commission around Stennis Airport was designated for a light industrial park. With the construction of Stennis Airport and Pearl River Junior College Vo-Tech Center, the value of this land has appreciated considerably.

Although the land around this area has not developed as rapidly as we would like, the value and potential is still there and ready for its original planned use.

I am hoping the present members of the Board of Supervisors and the Port and Harbor Commission are as far sighted as those members of 1966.

Businessman asks supervisors to weigh prison effect on Stennis Industrial Park

Mr. Dolph Kellar, President

Re: Minimum Security Prison

Gentlemen:

In 1966, several farsighted members of the Board of Supervisors and the Port and Harbor Commission made it possible for the purchase of Port Blenville and Stennis Airport.

They accomplished this by being aware and alert to the expiration of the State Seawall Tax collected with the gasoline tax. If obligated by bond issue this tax would be paid against these obligations and not revert to the State.

A bond issue was hurriedly prepared, approved and issued by the Board of Supervisors, and rushed to Jackson within hours of the deadline. Some counties along the coast were not so lucky. This bond issue, for the most part, was responsible for the inception of Port Blenville and Stennis Airport.

The land purchased by the Port and Harbor Commission around Stennis Airport was designated for a light industrial park. With the construction of Stennis Airport and Pearl River Junior College Vo-Tech Center, the value of this land has appreciated considerably.

Although the land around this area has not developed as rapidly as we would like, the value and potential is still there and ready for its original planned use.

I am hoping the present members of the Board of Supervisors and the Port and Harbor Commission are as far sighted as those members of 1966.

Peoples' Business

BEWARE HIGHER FEDERAL TAXES

Get ready for significantly higher federal taxes.

That's the warning from one of Mississippi's main men in Washington, business consultant Bill Simpson.

Simpson, an independent consultant and recognized as one of the most effective consultants in the capital, is a former aide to Senator James O. Eastland and a former White House assistant.

Simpson was in Jackson recently to address the Annual Membership Meeting of the Mississippi Economic Council. At that time he suggested that the Congress may turn to higher taxes to close the budget deficit.

Now comes an article in the "National Journal" which adds that while early discussions on the deficit centered on a balance between reduction of governmental expenditures and reasonable tax increases, the focus is shifting sharply to increased taxation, with little attention to reducing federal expenditures.

This message seems clear: if we want to hold the line on federal taxes we need to insist that our congressional delegation adopt as high priority reductions in federal spending.

Having been in the financial field for many years, dealing with both small and large businessmen, and corporations, I doubt every seriously if they would be interested in investing large amounts of monies in land, buildings and equipment with a minimum security prison several yards from their investment.

If I am correct in my assessment of a businessman's views of this situation, and I am sure you will agree if you are completely honest with yourselves, what will we do with the remaining property? Make a sanitary land fill.

I am sure the Gulf Regional Planning Commission's Land Use Study does not agree with using this land for a minimum security prison with its potential of becoming a satellite prison shortly after the lease is signed.

I am a lifelong resident of Hancock County and live in the vicinity of Stennis Airport. I am concerned with the safety of my family and friends but am also concerned for the citizens of Hancock County who paid their hard earned money for this valuable property with its potential seriously threatened.

I ask you to reconsider your position in this matter and continue making the sound intelligent decisions you have in the past.

Sincerely yours,
Joe B. Burrow Jr.

Chamber Beautification Committee sponsoring poster contest

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee is sponsoring a 'War On Ugliness' poster contest for junior and senior high students.

Kathy Fernandez, poster contest chairman, said, "A community's appearance reveals the civic and personal pride of its people. A newcomer's first impressions start at county lines, are reemphasized at the corporate limits of cities, and are finalized at a destination."

The chairman continued, "Improving the appearance of a community requires time, effort and a battle plan because it is a 'war on ugliness.'"

"Through the poster contest, we hope to create an awareness of community appearance among area students," she stated.

The contest is open to all seventh thru 12th grades students. Prizes will include: First Place, $25 cash; Second Place, Gift Certificate, Pizza Hut; and Third Place, Gift Certificate, Ward's.

All entries will receive special recognition certificates.

Contest rules are:

1. Size—poster will be limited to one-half sheet posterboard or 14 inches by 22 inches.

2. Color combination will be limited to three colors; however any medium may be used.

3. Wording must be printed in block-style lettering.

4. Main theme 'War on Ugliness' must be stated on poster; auxiliary slogan or subtitle shall consist of no more than six words.

5. Poster should be signed on front by student. Name, address, telephone number, school and grade must appear on upper right hand corner on back of poster.

Ellis Cuevas, chamber beautification chairman, stated, "I feel beautification is something which should involve all residents, and I am hoping there will be many entries in this poster contest."

"The cooperation from our area schools plays an important role in helping our communities be a cleaner place to live," Cuevas added.

For information on the poster contest, contact Fernandez at 467-6535 or poster co-chairman Carol Vegas 467-4778 or Ed Scanlan 467-7107.

HGH offering free blood pressure checks in May

Hancock General Hospital urges everyone in Hancock County to have their blood pressure checked during National High Blood Pressure Month, officially recognized each May.

"Our observance of this important month focuses on the need for people to control their diet, engage in an exercise program and follow their doctor's advice to help control high blood pressure," said Philip Langston, Hancock General administrator.

"Detection, however, is the first step to treatment." Hancock General will be providing free blood pressure screening to the public every Tuesday from 10 a.m. to noon in the hospital classroom in the building to the rear of the hospital.

"One out of every six adult Americans has high blood pressure and half of them don't even admit it," Langston said.

The disease can only be detected by having regular blood pressure checks. Usually there are no warning signs, making it even more dangerous.

High blood pressure can affect anyone, regardless of age or race. It can cause strokes, kidney failure, congestive heart failure, heart attacks or damage to other parts of the body. If detected, however, high blood pressure can be controlled under a doctor's care.

National High Blood Pressure Month is sponsored each year by the American Heart, Lung and Blood Institute to foster a better understanding of the importance of detecting high blood pressure and pointing out that the victim is capable of controlling it.

"Hancock General reminds everyone to fight the dangers of high blood pressure, for themselves and their families, by having their blood pressure checked regularly and by following the advice of their physicians," Langston concluded.

Highway Patrol undergoes annual inspection

The professional appearance of state troopers and their technical knowledge of certain aspects of law enforcement are being reviewed during a once-a-year inspection by leaders of the Mississippi Highway Patrol, Department of Public Safety officials reported recently.

The annual inspections are being conducted at the nine Highway Patrol districts by Commissioner of Public Safety James L. Roberts Jr., Chief of Patrol George Saxon and Assistant Chief of Patrol Kenneth R. Dukes.

Col. Saxon and Lt. Col. Dukes are looking at the more than 500 sworn officers to make sure departmental rules and regulations regarding physical appearance are being followed.

When the inspections got underway in early April at Greenwood, Saxon said, "It is important that uniformed members of this department demonstrate their sense of personal pride and present a neat, professional image while engaged in performance of their duties."

Verbal examinations on various technicalities of law enforcement procedures are being given, extemporaneously, to determine what specific areas need to be included in our in-service training sessions," Saxon said.

The inspection includes radio frequency checks on MHP radios and a property inventory at the nine facilities and at the Mississippi Crime Laboratory in Jackson, branch labs in Batesville and Gulfport and the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy.

"The annual frequency checks ensure that radio units are broadcasting within the tolerance frequencies authorized by the Federal Communications Commission," Dukes said.

"We have completed inspections in Greenwood, Batesville, New Albany, Meridian, Starkville and Jackson. We are pleased with what we have found thus far, especially considering the high-mileage condition of some enforcement vehicles in use," Roberts said.

"Annual inspections are held to determine the condition of lands and buildings maintained by the department, account for and determine how department-issued equipment is being cared for, monitor broadcast readiness of MHP radios and review the physical appearance of the employees, but mostly to make sure the professional tools used by those charged with enforcing the laws are safe."

"It is important that the approximate 450 automobiles and the 2,000 firearms used by our officers are operating safely not only for the officers' benefit but for the benefit of the citizens they are sworn to serve," the commissioner added.

In 1988, the Mississippi Legislature passed a law that orders inventories of all lands, buildings, equipment, furniture and other personal property to be made by each agency head on forms prescribed and furnished by the state auditor.

Documents verifying completed inventory inspections are provided annually by the department to the state auditor.

"The Department of Public Safety has inventory records on 14,500 furniture and equipment items valued at $13,500,000 used by nearly 1,000 employees stationed throughout the state," Roberts said.

Inspections are scheduled soon in Brookhaven, Hattiesburg and Gulfport.

Social Security taxes outlined

Q: How does the Social Security Tax Law on benefits affect retirees?

A: The new law won't affect that many people. Those who find they must pay taxes on their Social Security should be aware that it's going to be almost impossible to "shelter" money from this legislation. There is almost no way to avoid paying this tax if you are one of the small number of people affected by it.

The new law became effective last Jan. 1 and will affect income in this year. The law requires that single persons with a base income of $25,000 and married couples with a base income of $32,000 pay a tax on a portion of their Social Security benefits.

Base income is the adjusted gross income (earnings, pensions, money from Individual Retirement Accounts) plus half of Social Security benefits, and any non-taxable income.

The taxable income is equal to one half of the Social Security benefits, or one half of the amount over the base, whichever is less.

The rules and guidelines can be confusing, but briefly, it works like this:

John Doe is retired, with an income of $14,600 from pension, part-time earnings, and interest.

He receives another $6,540 in Social Security benefits. Half of that or $3,270 must be added to his income, along with $3,000 interest he received from tax-exempt bonds.

His base income is $14,600 plus $3,270 plus $3,000 or a total of $20,870. Since this is below the $25,000 limit, he owes no Social Security taxes.

On the other hand is the married couple with a gross income of $202,500. They also receive $14,400 in Social Security benefits and earn $25,000 in tax-exempt interest. They are over the $32,000 base by $202,700. They will have to pay Social Security taxes on half their Social Security benefits or $7,200.

The Social Security Administration estimates that about 10 percent of beneficiaries will have enough retirement income to put them over the base income amounts of $25,000 and $32,000. Therefore, relatively few people will be affected by this tax. But under the conditions of this new legislation, it will be almost impossible to shelter money from the tax, if it is due.

Retirees may not necessarily gain from moving funds into tax exempt securities.

Carefully study the law and its effects on your income and taxes before moving your money for a tax shelter.

Social Security personnel cannot answer questions concerning tax liability. If you need help, call the Internal Revenue Service toll free at 1-800-424-1040.

Q: My wife and I want to buy a house. Do you have any suggestions on getting a home mortgage loan approved?

A: Important factors considered in home mortgage applications are: Credit history, job stability, amount of down payment and salability of the house being purchased. While income is an important consideration, these other factors may count more in the decision to grant a loan.

When buying a home, check your credit report at the local credit bureau. Make sure it is up-to-date and accurate.

Answer all questions on the mortgage application completely and truthfully.

While the application is being processed, alert the personnel office of your employer to expect a call from the bank. If your base income is inflated by working overtime, get a note from your supervisor explaining the situation.

Sheriff's office buys first bulletproof vest

By NAN PATTON EHRLIGHT

Thanks to a grant from Chevron U.S.A. Inc., the Hancock County Sheriff's Department has added a bulletproof vest to its equipment inventory—an item that could well save an officer's life, officials note.

The $245 grant came from Chevron's Employee Involvement Fund.

Application for the grant was made by Burford M. Perry Jr., an auxiliary sheriff's deputy who is employed by Chevron and works out of Venice, La.

Chevron, Perry said yesterday when the vest was presented to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, encourages its employees to be civic-minded.

Applicants for the company's Employee Involvement Funds must be full-time employees who have worked for Chevron at least one year.

They must also, Perry noted, be active in a community service organization for which assistance is requested for at least three months before applying for a grant.

"Just being a member, or a contributor, is not enough," Perry said. Burford has been an auxiliary deputy for Hancock County for about six months, Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay reported.

Eligible projects for funding, according to the grant application, include "activities, materials and equipment or services that will have a measurable and lasting impact on the organization and the community."

"Assistance should make a difference to help fill a need—not merely displace normal support available in the community," the application states.

The Second Chance vest purchased by Peterson's department is the best one available, sheriff's department officers said.

"It should be able to stop any calibre gun made," Seay said, noting that a Florida officer wearing such a vest was shot six times recently and lived to talk about it.

"Having this vest may very well mean saving the life of one of our officers," Peterson said, adding that he hopes more vests may be purchased later.

Keesler reduces energy use receives $100,000 award

The efforts of Keesler Air Force Base personnel to reduce energy use during 1983 have paid off with a $100,000 Air Training Command Incentive Award which will be used to improve base recreational facilities and activities, base officials report.

Gen. Andrew P. Iosue, commander of Air Training Command, made the win official recently when he presented a plaque to Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Hickey, Keesler Technical Training Center commander, designating Keesler as the most effective base in the command in energy conservation programs during 1983.

According to base officials, the money will be used to purchase:

—Materials and equipment to upgrade the weight and workout rooms in the Blake and Triangle gyms;

—10 new boats for use at the base's marina;

—13 outboard motors for use at the marina;

—Four boat trailers for recreational supply;

—12 concrete picnic tables for the Marina Park;

—12 barbecue grills for the Marina Park;

—Wood Hobby Shop picture framing equipment;

—Auto Hobby Shop air conditioning service equipment;

—A video tape recorder for use at the base Child Care Center;

—A Hobby Shop graphics system;

—A golf course greens mower; and —Two lifter buggies.

Early in 1983 ATC announced the new incentive program to encourage the reduction of energy use throughout the command. The $100,000 award was established to recognize the base with the most effective ECON program for fiscal '83.

In Fiscal Year 1983 Keesler achieved a 15.6 percent reduction in electricity and natural gas consumption below the fiscal 1975 base year.

The Air Force goal was 15 percent below the base year.

The 1983 Air Force goal for fuel consumption was zero percent growth for both jet and ground fuels. Keesler's ground fuel consumption was 10.8 percent below the fiscal 1980 base year rate and jet fuel consumption was 2.4 percent below the fiscal 1975 base year.

Keesler is now well into its second no-heat, no-cool season this fiscal year which, officials hope, should put the base on track for reaching this year's 17.5 percent energy reduction goal.

The no-heat no-cool season began March 12 and continues through April 22.

A far cry from yesterday's soggy sandwiches in a leaking brown paper bag, are the delightful suggestions in "Lunches to Go," a colorfully presented collection of 32 menu ideas and recipes to lift you out of the carried-lunch doldrums.

Latest in Barron's "Easy Cooking Series," this slim book also offers, in addition to the handsome color photographs, step-by-step directions for each luncheon menu, some quite simple, some involving a bit more effort.

Fresh fruit and vegetables in season are much in evidence on the menus, along with a variety of bread bases for sandwiches and tasty garnishes.

There's a "Spanish Seafood Hero," somewhat of a distant relative of our oyster or shrimp pooboy, I suppose, made with scallops, black olives and olive oil—and a suggestion for "French Asparagus Rolls," thin slices of ham wrapped around slender, raw stalks of fresh asparagus, with a cautionary note to the effect that, if your asparagus stalks are thicker, you must gently parboil them for about four minutes before rolling the ham round.

Other titles in this new series by Barron's are: "Easy Appetizers," "Low Calorie Dishes," and "Quick Gourmet Dishes."

Earlier books of 32 easy-cooking menus and recipes deal with barbecues, seafood dishes, wok dishes, zesty pizza and so on. I'm eagerly anticipating looking over the others in this series!

Meanwhile, why not try this recipe for fruit-nut loaf (which the book's author teams with a cream cheese-sliced stuffed olive and chopped walnut filling). Here's:

FRUIT-NUT LOAF
2 cups finely chopped

assorted dried fruit (raisins, apricots, prunes, etc.)
1½ cups all-purpose flour
2 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup sweet butter, cold
2 eggs
1 Tbsp. milk
1½ tsp. almond extract

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place fruit in a bowl and pour enough boiling water over to cover. Soak 10 minutes. Drain off water, shake off excess moisture and allow fruit to drain in a colander set over a plate while you prepare the batter.

Place flour, baking powder, salt and sugar in bowl of a food processor and mix for 1 or 2 pulses. Cut butter in tablespoon-size pieces, place in bowl and process 7 or 8 pulses or until mixture is consistency of bread crumbs.

Remove mixture to mixing bowl and stir in fruits. In small bowl, beat eggs with fork, add milk and almond extract. Stir liquid into fruit and flour mixture and beat thoroughly. Batter will be stiff.

Spread batter into one greased 12½ by 3¼ inch loaf pan or two smaller ones. Bake for 1½ hours or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 or 15 minutes, then remove to cool on a rack. Wrap loaf in foil and refrigerate or freeze.

If you, like I, are more of an old-fashioned cook, you can still make this quite well using a mixer instead of a food processor. Just mix the dry ingredients well, mix the batter until crumb consistency, and proceed.

Growing Child

Disciplining a one-year-old

As soon as a baby begins to get around under her own steam, parents need to think about teaching her that some things—like electrical outlets—are off limits. This is the beginning of discipline.

In the dictionary, discipline has many meanings. From the point of view of child-rearing, some of these definitions are helpful and others are not so helpful, according to Growing —Instruction: The dictionary says this is an old-fashioned meaning. That's a pity, because good discipline should instruct a child.

Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

—Training which corrects, molds, strengthens, or perfects. This is the best meaning of discipline.

—Punishment, chastisement. Many people think of discipline as punishment. They try to decide if certain kinds of punishment are better or worse. But if discipline is something positive that helps a baby learn, grow and develop, then it is an entirely different matter.

—Control gained by enforcing obedience or order. This definition of discipline does not focus on instructing, strengthening or a child's need to learn.

The heart of the matter is this: Can discipline be used in a positive way?

Most children under a year old will continue to do exactly what you don't want them to do.

Their curiosity is enormous. Their physical drive propels them from one situation into another. Presented with fascinating new objects and places, they do not have the necessary knowledge or experience to determine what's "yes" and what's "no."

In short, they are just too young to fully understand why some things are acceptable and others are not. By wisely selecting what will be left within a child's reach, adults create a better learning environment for the child and save themselves many moments of anxiety or grief.

For example, assume you have an expensive television set. The knobs are an endless source of fascination for your daughter, who takes every opportunity to twist, turn and pull them. Every time you see her doing this, you tell her "no" and pull her hands away. Her response: the minute you're not looking, she's back at it.

What to do? You can:

1. Persist in "no-no" until she's old enough to get the message. This won't do much good right now.

2. Slap her hands along with the "no" until she learns what you mean.

3. Use your ingenuity. For example, rearrange the furniture so the set is inaccessible to her or tape a piece of cardboard over the knobs.

Almost any discipline problem can be solved by adjusting the environment. For instance, you can remove the tempting breakable knickknacks or make the object inaccessible.

Sometimes the answer to a problem is not to insist the child adhere to a set of adult rules but to find some means of temporarily changing the situation so a child has room to explore, look, feel, learn and, at the same time, stay out of trouble or harm's way.

HGH to celebrate Hospital Week

With the announcement, "We're the Caring Kind," Hancock General Hospital joins other hospitals throughout the nation May 6-12 in celebrating National Hospital Week 1984.

The 1984 National Hospital Week theme pays tribute to the special kind of people we have at Hancock General, said HGH Administrator Phil Langston.

Whether they be employees, volunteers, visitors or trustees, they are all people who are the "caring kind." They are people who care about one another and about the community. It is their commitment to caring that we celebrate this week.

In observance of National Hospital Week, Hancock General will offer an arts and crafts fair Saturday, May 5, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the front lawn of the hospital. Employees and members of the public will display their handmade and homemade wares.

An open house for the general public will be held Tuesday, May 8, from 2 to 5 p.m., consisting of tours of the facility, free pulmonary function studies and free blood pressure testings.

Refreshments will also be provided.

National Nurses Day will be observed Monday, May 7, with a reception for Hancock General's nurses.

This day has been set aside during National Hospital Week to recognize nurses for the compassionate care they provide hospital patients. Hancock General has chosen the theme of "Caring for a Lifetime" to emphasize the commitment and devotion nurses at the hospital have given.

"I'm proud of our nursing staff," said Langston. "They have added a great distinction to the quality of care we provide for the people of the community. I feel they represent some of the finest individuals in the profession today, and no group of people do more for our patients than our nurses."

"We could not serve the community without the community's support," he continued, "and the dedicated effort of our employees."

"National Hospital Week 1984 is a celebration of both our employees and the community. Only by working together can we truly be the Caring Kind."

National Hospital Week is sponsored each year by the American Hospital Association and its 6,300 member hospitals to foster better communication and understanding between hospitals and their patients, employees and the communities they serve.

Thinking Slim

BY JEAN NIDETCH

A WORD ABOUT WALKING

A while ago, we talked about the benefits of walking as regular exercise. Now that we have dealt with the "whys" of walking, let's talk for a moment about the "hows."

The first thing you need for walking is a good pair of shoes.

Running shoes are especially appropriate, but any comfortable shoe with a good fit, low heel, firm but pliable sole, good heel and arch support, and non-skid soles will do. Wear a good pair of socks underneath, or two pair in inclement weather. Some veteran walkers advocate applying a bandaid or two as a preventative measure against blisters. Although this should not be necessary if you break in slowly.

As for the rest of your outfit, wear whatever is comfortable and allows for freedom of movement. Just be sure to dress appropriately for the weather: hat and gloves in the cold, water proof gear when it rains.

Safety: while walking is largely a matter of common sense, it's wise to walk in unobstructed areas rather than near main roads, to avoid breathing in exhaust fumes and polluted air. Try to use walking paths or sidewalks, but if you must walk on a road, walk facing traffic, well over to the side, and be alert. Wear reflective clothing and be especially careful if you walk at night. Check with a doctor before starting a walking program, and begin slowly, walking only as far as you feel comfortable the first few times. Start each session with a few warm up and stretching exercises.

Your eventual goal should be one hour a day of brisk walking. Use a rolling, heel-toe motion, and set a regular rhythm. Walk at a comfortable pace, slowly enough to enable you to carry on a conversation or sing without getting winded. Hold your body erect, head up, shoulders back, and arms swinging as you stride.

There are a few things you can do to reinforce walking as a daily habit. Walking at the same time each day is most important. Walking with a partner or to music is also a good idea. (Be wary of headphones, though, since they prevent you from sensing traffic hazards.) Using a pedometer can give you an incentive to increase your distance, or drive the route in advance and use your car's speedometer to measure the distance. After a few weeks, your day just won't feel complete without your daily walk—and you will have acquired a healthy new habit!

Two arrests follow theft from scene of drug raid

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

A house at 41 Riverside Drive in Pearlington, subject to thorough scrutiny by law enforcement officials for the past several months, made news again last Friday when three three-wheelers were stolen from it.

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Alvin Ladner said Joseph Travis Keller, 24, and Donald J. Pullman, 20, both of Pearlington, were arrested Monday afternoon and charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft.

"We received word there were people stealing stuff from the house," Ladner said.

Ladner and Ronnie Cuevas, deputy sheriff in Pearlington, handled the theft investigation and arrests.

Both Keller and Pullman were released from jail after posting $2,500 bonds.

The Pearlington residence was the scene of an April 17 drug raid by officials of Hancock County Sheriff's Department, U.S. Customs, Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics and Mississippi Drug Enforcement Administration.

The raid took place after an investigation and surveillance which began Feb. 7.

Confiscated in the raid were 5,010 pounds of marijuana, $236,690 in cash, jewelry, several vehicles and a number of weapons.

Arrested following the drug raid and charged with possession with intent to distribute and conspiracy to distribute the marijuana are Jeffrey Kerr and Peter Kerr of the Riverside Drive address, Hugh Turner of San Rafael, Calif. and Winslow Byrne of Wakefield, R.I.

District Attorney Cono Caranna II has filed a forfeiture petition with Circuit Court asking that the cash and other property confiscated April 17 be turned over to the sheriff's department.

Ladner said the three-wheelers were owned by the Kerrs.

Two Hancock men arrested on separate rape charges

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Two Hancock County men charged with rape in separate incidents have been released after posting bond, Sheriff's Investigator Delbert Seay reported yesterday.

Seay said Paul Raymond Billiot, 44, of Lakeshore was arrested April 27 as a result of being indicted by the January Hancock County grand jury on charges of raping a child under 12 years old.

The date of the alleged offense was Feb. 21, 1984, he said.

Billiot is out of jail under a $20,000 professional bond, according to Seay.

Joseph Jessie Day was also arrested by Seay April 27 on a rape charge that allegedly occurred the same day.

Day, 36, of Pearlington, is out of jail under a $10,000 professional bond, Seay reported Wednesday.

On April 30 Seay arrested Calvin R. Pritchett, 25, of Toccoa, Ga. for grand theft of an automobile.

According to Seay, the theft occurred around the first of April.

Pritchett is being held in Hancock County Jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond.

Seay also reported that the sheriff's department has placed a 'hold' on Howard A. Stanley, 26, for a charge of grand theft of an auto.

Stanley, Seay said, is currently in the custody of Pearl River County authorities.

Waveland to spend $20,000 to renovate Civic Center

By NAN P. EHRBRIGHT

Waveland city officials are preparing to spend up to $20,000 to renovate the city's civic center on Coleman Avenue, Mayor John Longo said yesterday.

Longo said he talked to lumber yard personnel Wednesday morning about the possibility of obtaining prefabricated roofing trusses and is waiting to obtain cost estimates.

"That would be so much easier than trying to do it ourselves," he said.

"Then we'll set the trusses in place and sheet the roof, using city labor."

Pair arrested, cocaine seized

Two persons were arrested on I-10 Saturday night in connection with the possession of cocaine and intent to sell or distribute, according to Alvin Ladner, Hancock County Investigator.

Ladner said, "Claude E. Brown, 40, 4408 Texas St.; and Denois A. Butler, 39, 3604 Meadowlark, both of Gulfport, were arrested by Mississippi Troopers David Kenny and Fred Keel during a routine patrol on I-10 between highways 607 and 603."

"Seized at the scene were about one ounce of cocaine, a set of scales; a 1979 pickup truck and about $2,214 in cash," Ladner added.

Brown and Butler were released from the Hancock County Jail under $5,000 bond pending a preliminary hearing, Ladner stated.

Ladner is being assisted in the case by Lt. T.P. Naylor, Criminal Investigator for the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Pass sweeps Deep South track with 10 firsts, four records

By EDGAR PEREZ

Pass Christian High Boys Track Team ran away with the recent Deep South Conference Meet, taking first place in 10 of 17 events and setting four DSC records.

Bay High finished third with 44 points while setting two meet records.

Bay Area Youth Soccer gets seven shots at a state title

Seven teams from Bay Area Youth Soccer representing the Southern District and Bay St. Louis/Waveland will leave for Starkville Friday to participate in the State Recreational Soccer Tournament.

There they will face teams from each of the other three districts in Mississippi which qualified this past weekend in their respective District Tournaments.

The BAYS teams are Loiacano's Health Spa, Dental Health Service, Pat's Chevron, Knights of Columbus, Alcan Cable, Dillmann Roofing and Sports World.

"Let's give these teams a fine send-off, and wish them best of luck at state," says President Tom Demboski, adding "and a BAYS thank you to all those businesses and individuals who have made contributions to help our youth go to state."

This past weekend Slidell "Rowdies" and Plantation Athletic Club of New Orleans were invited to participate in a series of games with Alcan Cable and Knights of Columbus.

In the opening game Alcan Cable managed only a tie, 2-2, with the Rowdies. Then Plantation Athletic Club easily shut out the Rowdies.

In a scrimmage Knights of Columbus managed to score two goals against the Rowdies while holding the opponents scoreless.

Finally, Plantation Athletic Club downed Alcan Cable 6-2 in the finale. Eric Doyle was the outstanding player for Alcan Cable.

Also, the playoff game for the runner-up spot in the District Tournament for Under 8 was played Saturday. Ocean Springs "Jets" got on the scoreboard first in the first half, and made that margin stand up for a 2-1 victory over Gulfport "Hustlers."

Thus, both Ocean Springs entries will represent the Southern District at State in the Under 8 Division. "Thanks to a fine job my Marion Camp bell as Tournament Director for a well-run Tournament," Demboski said.

In other tune-up action Sports World was in Slidell to play the Select U-14 Girls. Although falling short 3-0, this was the best game of the three played between the two teams for the BAYS team.

Julie Guintard played a strong game in constantly beating the fullback on her side of the field to set up several scoring opportunities. Unfortunately Slidell's fine sweeper was able to thwart such opportunities.

Dillmann Roofing hosted its Slidell counterpart in a practice/scrimmage on Sunday. The 30 minute scrimmage ended in a 0-0 tie. This past Tuesday Dillmann Roofing traveled to Slidell in the afternoon to play a regular game against the same team, winning 1-0 and handing the Slidell team its first loss in two years.

Dental Health Service and Pat's Chevron scrimmaged each other last week, and Pat's Chevron made its best showing in outsourcing Dental Health Service for the first time this season.

Loiacano's Health Spa had no game this past week, but continues to practice in preparation for its run for the State Championship.

Last night the coaches met to review the rules for state as well as to assure that logistics were in good order. Some teams have new uniforms, and others have rejuvenated uniforms with names on the jerseys. All the teams should represent BAYS well.

Next Tuesday the board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Main Street United Methodist Church to finalize plans for a General Membership Meeting/Soccer Party next Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

"We hope everyone who has participated in our soccer program as a parent, coach, referee, sponsor or friend will join us for a gala evening," Demboski added.

READY TO FLY—Vance Young, 17, of Bay St. Louis, a St. Stanislaus High School senior, will be among the top eight AA high school pole vaulters in Mississippi competing for a state championship crown at Hughes Field in Jackson Saturday. Young set his best mark of 12 feet at South State Championships in Meridian last week where first place was taken with a 12-foot jump. "Vance's chances are good in Jackson this week," said SSC coach Vernon Powell, adding "With a good day he could win it all." Young also runs the 180-yard low hurdles for the Rock team, and holds the school record of 53-feet, 7.5-inches in the triple jump. (Photo by John Falcon)

Hancock karate students place in UNO All-South

The tournament included participants from various styles of the martial arts with many coming from out of state.

LIGHTING HOT

When lightning strikes, it's hot. In fact, a bolt of lightning is more than twice as hot as the surface of the sun, says National Wildlife's 'Ranger Rick' magazine.

BAT ATTACK

If a vampire bat attacks, you might not even notice it. According to National Wildlife's 'Ranger Rick' magazine, vampire bats sneak up on sleeping "victims" and lap, not suck, the blood from a wound. And the bats usually only swallow about one teaspoon at each meal.

By ED BLAKE Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation THE PICKUP FLIGHT OF JIM McMINN

Jim McMinn of Water Valley, Mississippi, is not the kind of adventuresome person who seeks a place in history for personal exploits.

Instead, he is director of his home town's Community Development and Block Grant program commonly referred to as HUD. He's a solid citizen, if you please.

He also is a farmer who grows soybeans in the hills a few miles northeast of Water Valley where he and his family live in an attractive country home and setting.

But Saturday, April 21, was no ordinary day in this north central Mississippi county seat. And adventure, perforce, made its way indelibly into Jim's life. He'll never forget the experience—recordbooks notwithstanding.

You see, Jim McMinn accompanied by his wife and mother-in-law, took off into the wild, black yonder in his farm pickup truck over Water Valley, blacked out, and left God Almighty alone at the controls for a widely gyrating flight observed by at least two witnesses on the ground.

He landed behind a service station after a flight that competitively compares in time and distance to the Wright Brothers' first airplane flight at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, on December 17, 1903.

But for Jim, wife Joanne, and mother-in-law Mrs. Annie Mae Porter, it was a tough landing in an even tougher situation that left them hospitalized and agonizing for long hours before they learned of the survival of other members of their immediate family in the face of the low flying tornado that churned through town and country taking a toll of 15 Mississippians—seven in Water Valley alone.

The family and community drama began late in the afternoon as Water Valley along with much of central and north Mississippi was put under tornado alert by the weather bureau.

The family and community drama began late in the afternoon as Water Valley along with much of central and north Mississippi was put under tornado alert by the weather bureau.

Jim drove into Water Valley to where his son Kevin and wife were working on a house. He began getting the family together in the event the darkening skies meant trouble.

Jim instructed the family members to go in their separate vehicles to his house in the country and go to the basement to wait out the weather situation.

Niece Jane Massie, a senior at Water Valley High, took off first as the town's fire siren began to wail. Wife Joanne declined to go by herself and piled into the pickup with her husband. They headed across town to get her mother, Mrs. Porter.

The tornado came into view, low and black, as they came to an intersection of the by-pass in the southwest part of town. It appeared to be five or ten minutes away as Jim sped on past the National Guard Armory as winds picked up.

"We are in it now," Jim advised the two women who sat beside him. "I must find a place to go—a low place." He gunned his truck up Central Street as it began to be struck by bricks and debris.

"It was like we were in a hailstorm," Jim reported, "only about a 100 times worse." Jim held his course northward through town. As he approached Tommy White's Service Station, Jim later learned, he became airborne. All three occupants of the pickup blacked out.

Jim last remembers a swirling sensation that began as he turned around to face the oncoming tornado. He remembers going faster and faster and floating like in a dream and the sound of an explosion. In direction, he had the impression that he was swirling away from the station.

Station owner Tommy White sat in his pickup truck behind his business and through his windshield looked up and saw Jim's pickup tumbling through the air over the station. Next door at the Mr. Quick convenience store, owner Ford looked through the glass in amazement as McMinn's pickup passed over. He observed the truck making about four spins.

The landing was behind the service station next to a bulk tank. Subconsciously Jim heard his wife calling his name but at first he couldn't answer. As he came to he lay half in the truck and half outside on the littered pavement. The buildings were gone and the truck lay on its side with his mother-in-law laying atop his wife.

Tommy White called to him and told him to get out because a gas line was loose and might explode. They got Mrs. Porter to come around a little, and led her across the street. Jim was bleeding badly from a cut on his forehead. All three of them were cut and bruised and were dispatched to the hospital at Oxford.

The hours that followed were even more painful inasmuch as it wasn't until around 10:30 p.m. that Jim learned that all of his family members had survived the storm.

Jim remained in the hospital until Monday. Joanne came home Tuesday, and her mother was still there as this reporter visited their home on Wednesday.

Near Jim's house several homes and a house trailer were destroyed. At the trailer a cousin, Tim McMinn, had just gotten home from work when his wife called from her mother's house in Water Valley to tell him that a tornado alert looked bad.

Tim showered, looked out again, and decided to get out. He jumped in his pickup and started southwestward toward Water Valley. At the crest of a hill he saw the tornado working the town and headed toward him.

He jumped out of the pickup and ran into the woods, injuring a foot in a wild dash into a hollow. The tornado skimmed past and hit his trailer dead center.

As Tim picked through the rubble and described the situation to this writer, two dresses of his wife waved from the limbs of a tree just over his head.

"If I hadn't gotten out," he said, "I would have had it!"

Nearby, Tommy Hill's friends were helping clean up the slab where his house had stood until late Saturday. He wore a pink ribboned straw hat that his wife had handed him to wear as he supervised the clean-up and stream of well wishers.

"I'll build back," he said with a friendly grin.

I walked over the swath the tornado had cut through Water Valley. The beautiful red brick, steeped First Baptist Church had lost most of its roof. The steeple housing was agape.

On the second floor a lecture stood facing a seatless toilet. Two vans on the parking lot were smashed beyond repair.

In the shopping center a crane lifted smashed coolers from Jones Supermarket into a 18' wheeler along with other debris. Chain saws whined as streets were still being cleared of fallen and broken trees. Houses spilled their contents.

Army jeeps and law enforcement cars patrolled everywhere. Minutes and yards away from the disaster it was a balmy and beautiful spring day.

As I left town I felt relief that the death toll had not been greater.

I couldn't dismiss from mind Jim and Joanne McMinn's amazing flight through the air in their pickup truck on the wings of the storm.

Only a few months earlier I had stood at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington and seen the Wright Brothers' contraption that they built for an historic first airplane flight of 120 feet in 12 seconds.

There's no way to measure Jim's flight comparatively on April 21—but that farm pickup with its mud-grip tires and tank-in-back seemingly bested the Wright flight with all sorts of acrobatics added in.

Jim told me he'll never forget that flight in the pickup. He added, "I saw in it God showing his strength and that He is in control of things here. I should have been dead, but He was with us and apparently it just wasn't our time to go!"

Keesler plans Armed Forces open house

Keesler will celebrate Armed Forces Day May 19 with an open house program that will give the expected thousands of visitors to the base a close-up view of the U.S. Air Force and its heritage, along with a chance to view exhibits from several other branches of the U.S. Armed Forces.

During the festivities, an F-15 Eagle, the Air Force's top-of-the-line tactical fighter, will give an aerial demonstration of its capabilities.

Additionally, several confederate Air Force aircraft are scheduled to fly past the base's flightline prior to landing and being put on display.

Current-day aircraft scheduled to be on display for visitors to examine include an F-16, an RF-4, a T-47, several helicopters and more.

Among the vintage aircraft belonging to the Confederate Air Force scheduled to come to Keesler are a B-25 Mitchell bomber, made famous by Gen. Jimmie Doolittle's barrier launched raid on Tokyo during World War II, and a P-51 Mustang, a type of aircraft used in the Atlantic, Pacific and China/Burma/India Theaters of Operations.

The gates to Keesler will open to the public at 10:30 a.m. May 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.

Required national service predicted for Americans

Prepared by the National Association of Secondary School Principals

American youth could face required national service by the end of the decade but it is likely to be in another form than military conscription.

That is the belief of a manager in the United States Selective Service, writing in a recent issue of the Bulletin, a monthly journal published by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

"As surely as Social Security is an issue in 1984, national youth service will be a major issue before the end of this decade," writes Donald J. Eberly, manager of the alternative service program for conscientious objectors, Selective Service.

Eberly's views do not necessarily represent those of the Selective Service, he said. Several factors will bring this question onto the national agenda, according to Eberly, including high youth unemployment, plans to increase the military's size without conscription and a declining population of 18- to 24-year-olds.

"Increasingly, economists are describing much of youth unemployment as structural rather than cyclical, which means that improved economic conditions alone will do little to reduce youth unemployment," reported Eberly, who also serves as executive director of National Service Secretariat, a volunteer non-profit organization promoting the idea of national service.

Already Senator Paul

Tsongas (D-Mass.) and Representative Leon Panetta (D-Calif.) have proposed legislation to establish a presidential commission to study national service.

Eberly defines national service as a program in which all young people would be asked to contribute a year or two to meeting important national needs and contends it would go a long way toward answering concerns facing America in the '80s.

"Youth unemployment would fall dramatically as one million young people, more than half of whom were unemployed, entered civilian youth service," he indicated.

"The transition from school to work would be eased as the government became the employer of first resort."

If youth service became a reality, young men and women could have a number of options, Eberly noted.

Those wanting to remain at home could work in senior citizen centers, nursing homes, hospitals, health clinics, schools, day care centers, or recreation and other municipal programs. They could also leave home and become involved in conservation or public works projects and native American or migrant programs. A limited number could enroll in the Peace Corps.

Mandatory national service could answer the problem of raising a military force, according to Eberly.

"The existence of a large-scale civilian service option may generate among young people a sense of volunteer service that leads enough of them to enlist in the armed forces to avoid a return to the draft," he wrote.

Eberly believes that the positive aspects of national youth service are sufficient to establish it now.

HNC STAR Student, Teacher announced

Paula J. Gaudin has been selected STAR Student at Hancock North Central High School, the Mississippi Economic Council announced recently.

Gaudin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gaudin of Pearlinton, has served as a cheerleader for the last three years and was cheerleader captain this year.

She was treasurer of Beta Club last year and is president this year.

Achievement Recognition (STAR) program encourages and promotes academic achievement among Mississippi's high school seniors, explained Dr. Ted Alexander of McComb, chairman of MEC's STAR committee.

"Top scholars are being designated as STAR Students in more than 325 participating schools," he said.

"From these, area winners are selected. The council awards scholarships to the state's top three STAR Students and their STAR Teachers."

Funds for the scholarships are provided by the Phil Hardin Foundation of Meridian, Alexander said.

Gregory, who teaches advanced mathematics, received her bachelor of science degree from Mississippi State University and her master's from the University of Southern Mississippi.

She has been teaching for only three years.

Both Gaudin and Gregory will receive certificates from the council in addition to being eligible for competition for scholarship awards.

PAULA J. GAUDIN

A Student Council member this year, she was a Girls' State Delegate and student director of a school play. She has been named to the Society of Distinguished American High School Students and to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

STAR Students are selected on the basis of academic excellence. American College Test scores and scholastic averages are considered in designating a school's Star Student.

The Student-Teacher

MRS. MYRNA GREGORY

Each STAR Student is asked to designate a STAR Teacher—a teacher who has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement.

Gaudin named Mrs. Myrna R. Gregory as her STAR Teacher.

The word "clue" originally referred to a ball of thread. That is why one is said to "unravel" the clues of a mystery.

Local VICA students win at district/state meets

By N. EHRBRIGHT
Seven Hancock County VICA members "came home" from a recent District 4 meeting with awards, testifying to their vocational skills, and one earned a third place award at the state meet.

VICA (Vocational-Industrial Clubs of America) is a national organization for vocational education students. In Hancock County, the program operates out of the Hancock Vo-Tech Center.

Jim Wolf, who teaches electrical courses at the center, is VICA advisor to the 26-member local club.

Dean Kronauer, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Billie Powell of Bay St. Louis and a senior at Bay High School, won a first-place award for cabinet-making at the district contest at Pearl River College and third place for cabinet-making at the state contest in Jackson.

At the state meet, Kronauer competed with 12 other cabinet-building students from throughout the state.

He plans, he says, to make cabinet-making his vocation after he finishes school.

Other Hancock County winners at the district meet included Donald Graham of Hancock North Central High School, first place for carpentry; Marty Sahuque of St. Stanislaus, first place in electricity and third place in prepared speech; Chris Whitfield of Hancock North Central, third place in auto mechanics; Mark Bruen of Hancock North Central, third place in shop demonstration; and Shelton James and Earl Ladner of Hancock North Central, third place as a brick-laying team.

Also attending the district meet as voting delegates were Wayne Fuchsh of Hancock North Central and Douglas Almond of Bay High.

Wolf said about 300 VICA members participated in the district meeting.

Benefit account opened for child hit by car

A benefit medical expense fund has been established at Hancock Bank for Desire Garza, 9, daughter of Cheryl and Alvaro Garza of BaySide Park.

The child sustained head and leg injuries Saturday, April 21 when she was struck by a car on Hancock Drive near her home.

She is currently listed in good condition at Gulfport Memorial Hospital where she had been confined to the intensive care unit for four days following the accident with head injuries, broken left arm, bruises and abrasions.

Neither her parents nor driver of the vehicle involved in the accident are covered by insurance, according to the child's grandmother, Mrs. Ruby Wallace, also of BaySide Park.

The Desire Garza Hospital Benefit Account number at Hancock Bank is 03-746-4150.
